

Gerhart Hauptmann and his Historical Plays

Aesthetic character construction and its relationship to history

By Marc J. Schweissinger

Berichte aus der Literaturwissenschaft

Marc Jeremias Schweissinger

Gerhart Hauptmann and his Historical Plays

Aesthetic character construction and its relationship to history

Shaker Verlag
Aachen 2008

Bibliographic information published by the Deutsche Nationalbibliothek

The Deutsche Nationalbibliothek lists this publication in the Deutsche Nationalbibliografie; detailed bibliographic data are available in the Internet at <http://dnb.d-nb.de>.

Copyright Shaker Verlag 2008

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise, without the prior permission of the publishers.

Printed in Germany.

ISBN 978-3-8322-7050-6

ISSN 0945-0858

Shaker Verlag GmbH • P.O. BOX 101818 • D-52018 Aachen

Phone: 0049/2407/9596-0 • Telefax: 0049/2407/9596-9

Internet: www.shaker.de • e-mail: info@shaker.de

Preface

I would like to thank Prof. Alfred White, who played a central role in guiding this work and sustaining me through its creation. His careful and incisive reading had pervasive influence on my work. I am grateful for his constructive criticism, for his caring, for his thorough and consistent attention to the process of writing this dissertation, and for his great support, extraordinary patience, and stoic ears. I thank Prof. David Jackson for generous and warm encouragement.

Thank goes to the chairman of the Gerhart Hauptmann Gesellschaft Dr. Klaus Hildebrandt, who encouraged me to pursue the subject of this dissertation, as did the members of the Hauptmann Gesellschaft in general. Thanks to Prof. Sprengel, who helped me to decipher some of Hauptmann's sometimes difficult handwriting. Thanks to Alexander Martin Pfleger and his most welcome support.

Special thanks to the members of the archive (Handschriftenlesesaal) of the Preussische Staatsbibliothek in Berlin Potsdamer Platz, who helped me to deal with Hauptmann's handwritten legacy, which was so important for this book.

Finally, my special thanks go to David and Sigrid Coats, whose help and encouragement were instrumental in the writing of this book.

Contents

	page
Preface.....	3
Contents	4
I. Introduction.....	10
I.2. Choice of historical dramas.....	14
I.3. Method.....	19
I.4. Research results important for this investigation.....	22
II. Role models and their influence on Hauptmann.....	28
II.2. The importance of Goethe.....	35
II.3. Early plays contrasted to Hauptmann.....	37
II.4. Ernst von Wildenbruch and his play Die Karolinger (1882).....	39
II.5. Gerhart Hauptmann's approach to drama and the early plays	45
III. Die Weber (1891-92): Socio-political and historical play	49
III.2. The three unities and the language	54
III.3. Dreissiger and Kittelhaus: Citizens and cold capitalists?	58
III.4. The industrialist and his household	66
III.5. The rebellious weavers	78
III.6. Luise Hilse: Emancipation in the 19 th century?	87
III.7. Conclusion.....	92

IV. Florian Geyer (1894-95)	94
IV.2. The three unities and the language	97
IV.3. Florian Geyer: Nobleman and war hero	100
IV.4. Rebellious peasants and intellectuals	104
IV.5. Anti-religious motivations	107
IV.6. The weak noble knight in the 16 th Century	117
IV.7. The female characters - stereotypes or unavoidable?	122
IV.8. Conclusion	127
V. Der arme Heinrich (1897-1902): An Historical Legend	130
V.2. The three unities and the language	132
V.3. Heinrich: Knight, crusader, and still a Christian?	135
V.4. Hartmann von Aue: Hauptmann's Poetic Self-Portrait?	141
V.5. Ottegebe: The serving woman and her parents	144
V.6. Benedikt: Another kind of clergyman	147
V.7. Ottacker, or pure superstition	150
V.8. Conclusion	152
VI. Kaiser Karls Geisel (1906-07): An Historical Legend	155
VI.2. The three unities and the Language	157
VI.3. Charlemagne: A Powerful Emperor	160

VI.4. Bennit and Gersuind: Defeated Saxons and Lost Souls?	164
VI.5. Alcuin: Christian Faith and Education.....	167
VI.6. Chancellor Ercambald: A Fanatic Christian?	169
VI.7. The Members of the Convent	173
VI.8. Rorico: Proud Frankish Nobility	176
VI.9. Conclusion.....	178
VII. Magnus Garbe (1914-15): A Cultural clash?	181
VII.2. The three unities and the language	183
VII.3. Magnus Garbe: A subservient mayor.....	186
VII.4. Felicia Garbe: A murdered wife.....	189
VII.5. Advisers and friends: Dr. Anselo and Dr. Wyk	192
VII.6. People's beliefs: Faith or superstition?	195
VII.7. The members of the Inquisition	198
VII.8. Conclusion.....	200
VIII. Der weiße Heiland (1912-17): A dramatic fantasy?	204
VIII.2. The three unities and the language	206
VIII.3. Cortés: Conqueror, commander and Christian	208
VIII.4. Montezuma: A betrayed emperor?	212

VIII.5. Gómara, Bernal Diaz, Las Casas: Different historical perspectives	215
VIII.6. Marina: Historical character and translator	219
VIII.7. Mexican clergy: Theological dispute and discord	221
VIII.8. Guatemotzin, Cacamatzin, Qualpopoca: Aztec resistance	224
VIII.9. Pedro de Alvarado: A soldier's business	226
VIII.10. Father Olmedo: A Christian priest	228
VIII.11. Conclusion	230
IX. Die schwarze Maske (1928): Historical symbolism?	233
IX.2. The three unities and the language	234
IX.3. Schuller: Another weak mayor?	237
IX.4. Two supporting female characters	239
IX.5. Löwel Perl: Stereotype or necessity?	241
IX.6. The prince-abbot Robert Dedo	243
IX.7. Count Ebbo Hüttenwächter: A drunken fool?	245
IX.8. Pater Plebanus Wendt: A weak minister	247
IX.9. Benigna: A wife with a dark secret	249
IX.10. Francois and Jedidja: Religious, devoted servants	253
IX.11. The black man: Racism, discrimination or purely a symbol?	255

IX.12. Conclusion.....	258
X. Ulrich von Lichtenstein (1910-37): An historical comedy?	260
X.2. The three unities and the language	262
X.3. Ulrich: The perfect minnesinger?	265
X.4. Duchess Maria: A perfect match?	271
X.5. Katharina: A betrayed wife?	276
X.6. Hund vom Stier: Representing the Medieval knight?	277
X.7. Blondel and Isabella: A perfect match.....	279
X.8. Manasse and Trostelin: A game with names?	281
X.9. Conclusion.....	283
XI. Die Tochter der Kathedrale : Historical heresy?	289
XI.2. The three unities and the language	290
XI.3. Geralda and Gerlind: Unequal sisters	295
XI.4. Prince Peter and Prince Paul: Unequal brothers	297
XI.5. Chancellor Trossebof: The good politician	300
XI.6. Father Johannes: Supernatural magical power	302
XI.7. Duke Otto and his father confessor, Abbot Ugo	304
XI.8. Ermelinda: Or, the price one has to pay	307

XI.9. Heurodis: The strong and good woman.....	308
XI.10. Conclusion.....	310
XII. History and Fiction in Hauptmann's Dramatic Works.....	314
XII.2. Plot and language: Development or back to the roots?	317
XII.3. Scene and Time: Conservatism and progress.....	320
XII.4. Character construction and history: A change in attitude?	322
XII.5. The male character	324
XII.6. The female character	326
XII.7. How historical are Hauptmann's characters?.....	328
XII.8. Conclusion.....	330
XIII. Bibliography.....	333
XIII.1. Primary literature	333
XIII.1.1. Gerhart Hauptmann's works, letters and conversations	333
XIII.1.2. Other primary literature	334
XIII.2. Secondary literature	340
XIII.2.1. About Gerhart Hauptmann's works and life	340
XIII.2.2. General investigations	347
XIII.3. Historical, political, legal and theological works	357